

Fast fashion

is eating up our planet

Fast fashion

is eating up our planet

add-ons and comments

ideas

given no governmental attention penny taxes on every garment sold as fund for recycling initiatives tax break for companies developing more sustainable clothes to complicate unnecessary purchases clear governmental policies to prosecute brands burning unsold clothing few to no funding → missing interest

inventions

making fabrics like polyester from oil byproducts or recycled plastic leather-like materials from apple or pineapple fiber bags made from lianas add on harming animals and environmental harming chemicals are being used during the production process consumers changes their habits